Afghan Fight 'Deteriorating'

Mullen's warning comes as decision looms on troop levels

WASHINGTON | The situation in Afghanistan is "serious and deteriorating," Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman Adm. Michael Mullen said Sunday, as the Obama administration awaits an assessment by the new U.S. commander there and a possible request for more troops.

Mullen also expressed concern over recent opinion polls indicating that for the first time a majority of Americans do not think the Afghan war is worth fighting. President from the public and within the Democratic Party to provide a fuller explanation of his Afghanistan strategy. Support for additional troops has been strongest within Republican ranks.

Sen. John McCain (R-Ariz.), who just returned from Afghanistan, said that Gen. Stanley A. McChrystal was under "great pressures" from "people around" Obama to reduce his estimate of future troop needs.

Lieberman: Put Brakes On Reform

Conn. senator says Obama should delay health care initiatives

WASHINGTON | An independent senator counted on by Democrats in the health care debate showed signs of wavering Sunday when he urged President Obama to postpone many of his initiatives because of the economic downturn.

"I'm afraid we've got to think about putting a lot of that off until the economy's out of recession," said Connecticut Sen. Joe Lieberman. "There's no reason we have to do it all now, but we do have to get started. And I think the place to start is cost health delivery reform and insurance market reforms."

"I think it's a real mistake to try to jam through the total health insurance reform, health care reform plan that the public is either opposed to or of very, very passionate mixed minds about," Lieberman said. DOUGLASS K. DANIEL (AP)

Obama OKs New Interrogation Unit

Elite team of experts will lead questioning of key terror suspects

WASHINGTON | President Obama has approved the creation of an elite team of interrogators dedicated to questioning key terrorism suspects, part of a broader effort to revamp U.S. policy on detention and interrogation, senior administration officials said Sunday.

Obama signed off on the new unit, named the High-Value Detainee Interrogation Group, or H.I.G., late last week. Comprised of experts from across several intelligence and law enforcement agencies, the interrogation unit will be housed at the FBI but overseen by the National Security Council — shifting the center of gravity away from the Central Intelligence Agency and giving the White House direct oversight.

Seeking to signal a clean break from the Bush administration, Obama moved to overhaul interrogation and detention guidelines soon after taking office. The task force, whose findings will be made public on Monday, recommended the new interrogation unit along with other changes regarding the way prisoners are transferred overseas.

Under the new guidelines, interrogators will be required to stay within the parameters of the Army Field Manual when questioning suspects. The task force concluded — unanimously, officials said — that "the Army Field Manual provides appropriate guidance on interrogation for military interrogators and that no additional or different guidance was necessary for other agencies," according to a three-page summary of the findings.

That means that certain techniques in the gray zone between torture and legal questioning — such as playing loud music or depriving prisoners of sleep — will not be allowed. Which tactics are considered acceptable was an issue that was "looked at thoroughly," one senior official said. Obama had already banned certain severe measures that the Bush administration had permitted, including waterboarding.

Still, the Obama task force advised that the new group develop a "scientific research program for interrogation" to develop new techniques and study existing ones to see if they work. In essence, the H.I.G. unit would determine a set of best practices on interrogation, and share them with other agencies that question prisoners in terrorism cases.

Elderly Face Cash Squeeze

Social Security won't bump up payouts for the first time since '75

WASHINGTON | Millions of older people face shrinking Social Security checks next year, the first time in a generation that payments would not rise.

The trustees who oversee Social Security project there won't be a cost of living adjustment (COLA) for the next two years. That hasn't happened since automatic increases were adopted in 1975.

By law, Social Security benefits cannot go down. Nevertheless, monthly payments would drop for millions of people in the Medicare prescription drug program

“To seniors, especially with their health care costs, it is a big deal.”

—BARBARA KENNELLY,
HEAD OF THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE TO PRESERVE SOCIAL SECURITY

because the premiums, which often are deducted from Social Security payments, are scheduled to go up slightly.

“I will promise you, they count on that COLA,” said Barbara Kennelly, a former Democratic congresswoman from Connecticut who now heads the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare. “To some people, it might not be a big deal. But to seniors, especially with their health care costs, it is a big deal.”

Cost of living adjustments are pegged to inflation, which has been negative this year, largely because energy prices are below 2008 levels.

Advocates say older people still face higher prices because they spend a disproportionate amount of their income on health care, where costs rise faster than inflation. Many also have suffered from declining home values and shrinking stock portfolios.

About 50 million retired and disabled Americans receive Social Security benefits. The average monthly benefit for retirees is $1,153. STEPHEN OHLEMACHER (AP)

Wildfires Rage Near Greek Capital

Tens of thousands flee homes as locals decry government response

ATHENS, GREECE | A raging wildfire raced down a mountain slope in Greece toward the town of Marathon on Sunday, nearing two ancient temples while despairing residents pleaded for firefighters and equipment that were nowhere to be seen.

Tens of thousands of residents of Athens' northern suburbs evacuated their homes, fleeing in cars or on foot. Several houses were destroyed as the fire advanced across an area more than 30 miles wide.

More than 90 wildfires have ignited since Saturday across Greece, and six major fires were burning late Sunday. The Athens fire began on Mount Penteli, which divides Athens from the Marathon plain, and has spread down both sides of the mountain.

Driven by gale-force winds, the blaze grew fastest near Marathon, from which the modern long-distance foot race takes its name.

One resident, Nikos Adamopoulos, said he had driven over a large part of the area and saw no firefighters.

"The Museum of Marathon is being encircled by fire and flames are closing in on [the archaeological site of] Rhamnus," he told The Associated Press. Rhamnus is home to two 2,500-year-old temples.

The mayor of Marathon said he had been "begging the government to send over planes and helicopters" to no avail.

"There are only two fire engines here; three houses are already on fire and we are just watching helplessly," mayor Spyros Zagaris told Greek TV.

Zagaris was among several local leaders who accused the government of having no plan to fight the fire.

Finance Minister Yiannis Papathanassiou responded: "This is not the time for criticism under these tragic conditions. We are fighting a difficult fight." DEMETRI NELLAS (AP)

Outcry Mounts Over Afghan Vote

Investigator: Fraud could influence final outcome of election

KABUL | The outcry over alleged vote fraud in Afghanistan's election escalated Sunday, with President Hamid Karzai's chief opponent charging that turnout figures were padded and the chief fraud investigator saying some of the allegations were serious enough to influence the outcome if true.

Millions of Afghans voted Thursday in the country's second-ever direct presidential election, although Taliban threats and attacks appeared to dampen the turnout, especially in the south where support for Karzai is strong.

Final certified results will not come until next month, although partial preliminary figures are expected Tuesday. If none of the 36 candidates wins a majority, the top two finishers will face a runoff in October.

Karzai's top challenger, former Foreign Minister Abdullah Abdullah, widened allegations of fraud against Karzai Sunday, saying ballots marked for the incumbent were coming in from volatile southern districts where no vote was held, and that turnout was being reported as 40 percent in areas where only 10 percent of voters cast ballots. Tim Entwisle, the chief of Sydney's Royal Botanic Gardens, believes more seasons could help people better understand the environment. He has suggested adding "sprummer," the season between spring and summer, and "sprinter," an early spring. Entwisle is also pushing for a contest to establish new seasons. (EXPRESS)

DCPS Enrollment Down 17 Percent

Despite strong push to attract students, overall numbers drop

Despite an advertising campaign and an early push to sign up students, the D.C. public school system will begin classes Monday with an enrollment of about 37,000 — 17 percent below the total at the end of the last academic year, officials said over the weekend.

Enrollment in regular public schools often grows during the year, as students and parents complete paperwork and some transfer from public charter schools. But a spokeswoman for Chancellor Michelle A. Rhee declined to predict whether the system would reach 44,681 — the audited enrollment figure from last school year and the basis for its $760 million 2010 budget.

D.C. Schools Chancellor Michelle Rhee, right, said that she anticipates a smoother start to the new school year. Overall enrollment is expected to be below 37,000.

Moreover, because the school system moved up the start of its annual enrollment process from July to April, the late surge could be smaller than usual.

"We anticipate a much smoother start to school with fewer families needing to enroll during the first few days," said Jennifer Calloway, Rhee's spokeswoman. She added that last year at this time, only 15,000 students had completed enrollment.

In addition to a radio and bus sign ad campaign, principals visited homes, held community barbecues and conducted enrollment fairs in concert with immunization clinics held by the District's health department.

Regular public school enrollment in the District has declined by more than half since 1980, while the public charter community has grown dramatically since the independently operated schools began in the 1990s.

More than a third of the city's public students now attend charter schools, which project an enrollment of about 28,066 this fall, up more than 10 percent from last school year's 25,363.

Man Kills Himself In Bladensburg Police Station

BLADENSBURG, MD. | Bladensburg police say a suspected drunken driver hanged himself in a cell at the town's police station early Sunday. The man was taken into custody after police say officers saw him stumbling in the street toward oncoming traffic. His sport-utility vehicle had crashed into a telephone pole.

He was arrested and taken to the police station for processing. During a check of his cell, an officer found that the man had tied his T-shirt around his neck and hanged himself from the cell door. Efforts to revive him were unsuccessful, and the man was pronounced dead at Prince George's Hospital Center. (AP)

All That They Leave Behind

More shoppers are ditching items at the register to save cash

NEW YORK | Penny-pinching Americans are getting cold feet at the checkout — thinking twice about spending and ditching items before they're rung up.

They're leaving sweaters in the dress department, dumping cookies near the grocery cashier and waiting until the last minute to weigh wants versus needs. Online, shoppers are abandoning their virtual carts as they search for better deals.

People "want to be in the act of shopping, but they don't want to be in the act of buying," said Joel Bines, a director at AlixPartners, a turnaround consultant.

It means more lost sales for stores at a time when there are already fewer customers because of the recession. For bricks-and-mortar shops already working with fewer staff, it also means more work because orphaned items have to be restocked.

Ashley Nichols Guttuso of Midlothian, Va., dumped a red cardigan last week at the counter at the local Limited store after she found out she couldn't use a $15 store coupon on the $15 sweater.

Guttuso says she could have afforded it, but she has focused on necessities since losing her job as a copywriter for Circuit City in January.

"I went in there thinking I could get something for free," said the 27-year-old. "I couldn't rationalize it — even spending $15 to $20. I am watching everything now."

Zorn: Campbell Gets Passing Grade

Redskins coach stays positive about his QB despite dismal start

REDSKINS | Washington Redskins quarterback Jason Campbell has played five series in this exhibition season, has a completion percentage of 30.8, and enters perhaps the most important week of the preseason coming off a statistically dismal one-for-seven performance in Saturday night's 17-13 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers. Still, Coach Jim Zorn provided a positive assessment of the situation.

Jason Campbell's completion percentage in two starts during the preseason. He was just one-for-seven in against the Steelers on Saturday night.

"I thought Jason did a nice job getting us into the right play," Zorn said.

A day after the Redskins' first offensive unit failed to score a touchdown for the second consecutive preseason game, Zorn downplayed any disappointment in Campbell's performance, concentrating on the fifth-year quarterback's decision-making process.

Campbell, too, said the game plan called for the Redskins to try some deeper throws, including the game-opening play in which Campbell missed second-year receiver Malcolm Kelly on a

"To me, it's what we have to do — take shots," Campbell said Saturday night. "I can't worry about my stats and everything, because we're trying to do something to help us out during the year."

BARRY SVRLUGA (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Jets' Ryan Set for 'Special' Preseason Game vs. Ravens

RAVENS | Jets vs. Ravens in a preseason game? Yawn.

How about a Monday night battle of wits between outspoken first-year head coach Rex Ryan and the sensational defense he helped create? Now that sounds interesting!

After building one of the stingiest defenses in NFL history, Ryan left Baltimore during the offseason to oversee the revival of the downtrodden Jets.

The teams won't meet during the regular season, so this is the only chance in 2009 for Ryan to go up his former boss, John Harbaugh, and the organization that paid his checks over the last 10 years.

"You're like, 'Wow, this is a preseason game,' but it's going to feel special. I know it is," Ryan insisted. "It's not just going to feel special to me. It's going to feel special for all our guys." DAVID GINSBURG (AP)

BASEBALL

Unassisted Triple Play Caps Phils' Win vs. Mets

Second baseman Eric Bruntlett turned an unassisted triple play to end the Philadelphia Phillies' 9-7 victory over the New York Mets on Sunday. It was the 15th unassisted triple play in major league history — and the second that ended a game. Tigers first baseman Johnny Neun did it in 1927. Bruntlett's triple play preserved a win for Pedro Martinez in his return to New York. (AP)

Brian Roberts had three hits, Nolan Reimold hit a two-run homer and the Baltimore Orioles beat Mark Buehrle and the Chicago White Sox 5-4 on Sunday. Jason Berken (3-11) won just for the second time since May 26. The rookie allowed three runs, two earned, and five hits in 5 2-3 innings. (AP)

COLLEGE FOOTBALL Is Three Better Than One? Michigan coach Rich Rodriguez says he plans to use three quarterbacks in the season opener against Western Michigan. Rodriguez spent about the first 10 minutes of his news conference Sunday answering questions about freshmen Tate Forcier and Denard Robinson, who are competing for snaps along with junior Nick Sheridan. Robinson became the story of media day because he hasn't tied the laces of his cleats since he started playing football at age 7. (AP)

Nationals' Adam Dunn (44) is greeted at home by teammate Josh Willingham (16) after hitting a solo home run in the third inning off Brewers' pitcher Manny Parra.

Nats Power Past Brewers, End Skid

Washington avoids sweep, snaps losing streak at five games

NATIONALS | Ryan Zimmerman, Cristian Guzman and Adam Dunn homered to help the Washington Nationals end a five-game skid with an 8-3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers on Sunday.

Rookie right-hander Craig Stammen (4-6) allowed three runs and five hits over 6 1-3 innings to win for the first time in six starts. Zimmerman drove in three runs and Ronnie Belliard had two RBIs.

Dunn connected for his 33rd homer in the third, hitting a leadoff drive into the second deck in right. Guzman singled with one out in the fourth before Zimmerman launched his career-high 26th home run to center, knocking Parra (8-10) from the game.

Milwaukee's Ryan Braun was ejected for throwing his helmet in the sixth after shortstop Guzman ranged into short left field to snag his grounder and throw him out at first for the inning's first out.

Braun used two hands to heave his headgear in disgust and got tossed by first base umpire Mike Muchlinksi. (AP)

The Comedic Lynchpin

An actress goes from a relative unknown to synonymous with funny movies and TV

SUCCESS | Jane Lynch looks fresh, well-rested — a surprise, given she seems to have appeared in, well, what seems like every film and television show this year.

She's logged at least a dozen 2009 screen credits, perhaps the highest-profile role as Sue Sylvester, the diabolically funny cheerleading coach in Fox's high-school musical series "Glee," and as Julia Child's towering sister Dorothy McWilliams opposite Meryl Streep in "Julie & Julia."

You can now see Lynch in the coming-of-age comedy "Post Grad" with Alexis Bledel, and next month, she's in the season opener of the CBS' comedy "Two and a Half Men." Lynch is busy, in the way character actors used to be in the movie-a-week studio-system heyday.

But she bristles at the suggestion she's the hardest-working woman in Hollywood.

"You know, I'm not crazy-busy," Lynch said. "The nature of what I do, I only work two or three days at a time. ... I kind of pop in and out of things. So it's three days here, maybe a week there. Then I'm left with myself and my horrible thoughts."

She doesn't elaborate, but getting in touch with her dark side has clearly served Lynch well, especially with her work on "Glee," where the character is, essentially, the school's Darth Vader. She's protecting her evil empire from — and here's what makes it so hilarious — the loser kids in the new glee club.

LATE BLOOMER: Lynch started doing screen work in the '80s, but didn't gain recognition until she starred in "Best in Show."

Lynch, 49, has been doing screen work since the late '80s. But her breakthrough didn't come until 2000, when she stood out in one of director Christopher Guest's traditionally crowded ensembles, playing a domineer-

“You know, I'm not crazy-busy. The nature of what I do, I only work two or three days at a time.”

ing personal dog handler in "Best in Show."

"Julie & Julia" offered a rare chance for Lynch to not only get dramatic, but also do it on-screen with no less than Streep.

"I did my best to hold it together inside, because you're working with someone who is not only a legend, but somebody who has been a hero of mine for a long time," Lynch said. "So you kind of have to let that go and just do your job. ... We were shooting in a restaurant in Brooklyn, and we were waiting for the light so we could cross into our trailers. And she slipped her arm in mine and we crossed the street together, and I — aaach! — it was wonderful." MICHAEL CIDONI (AP)

Rocca does comedy and current events.

Looking Forward To Funny

'The Tomorrow Show' is Mo Rocca's wry take on the future

LAUGHS | Of all the former "Daily Show" correspondents, none has stayed as close to the news as Mo Rocca.

Rocca recently launched "The Tomorrow Show," a forward-looking Web series for CBS News that looks with humor and curiosity at future changes that may await us. New episodes debut on Mondays at cbsnews.com.

The 40-year-old satirist is known to many for his appearances on "The Daily Show" from 1998-2003. Since then, he's appeared as a frequent panelist on NPR's "Wait, Wait ... Don't Tell Me!" and has been a regular contributor to CBS' "Sunday Morning."

The first episode of "The Tomorrow Show" looked at the future of paper. Topics ahead, Rocca says, will include the future of dating ("yes, it involves robots"), candy ("it involves inhalable chocolate") and traffic. JAKE COYLE (AP)

BOX OFFICE Basterdly Business "Inglourious Basterds" claimed victory at the box office this weekend with a $37.6 million debut. It was Quentin Tarantino's best opening ever, exceeding the $25.1 million haul for 2004's "Kill Bill — Vol. 2." Overseas, "Inglourious Basterds" added $27.5 million in 22 countries. The previous weekend's top movie, Sony's sci-fi thriller "District 9," slipped to second-place with $18.9 million. With a domestic total of $73.5 million, the movie is on its way to becoming a $100 million sleeper hit. (AP)

Neverending Journey

An HBO film portrays lives spent hopping from train to train

CHOO CHOO | The documentary "Which Way Home" (9 p.m., HBO) offers a remarkable account of young runaways from Honduras — some as young as 10 — riding freight trains through Mexico in the hopes of crossing into the United States.

While illegal immigration is often discussed in terms of politics, legality and economics, "Home" explores an emotional component. Scorned by their parents and step-parents, some of these boys talk about being "reborn" in the U.S. More than one pines for the day when "someone will adopt me." "Home" may remind some Fito is a Honduran boy whose dreams of living in the U.S. keep him train-hopping.

film buffs of "Wild Boys of the Road," director William Wellman's 1933 drama of gangs of homeless teens riding out the Depression in freight cars. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

B.I.O.

BY INVITATION ONLY: UPCOMING WEDDINGS & UNIONS

John "Jay" Cheek, Krisy Ghonda

Jay, 25, is a law student. Krisy, 25, is an internal auditor. They'll live in Falls Church.

- The Main Event: On Aug. 22, they exchanged vows at a Houston, Texas, country club in front of 150 people.
- How They Met: On Facebook. She thought he was cute and "poked" him. When they returned to the University of Pittsburgh, he visited her the first night.
- First Impressions: "Jay was so cute. His smile went from ear to ear, and I clearly could tell that he thought I was kind to his eyes."

■ First Date: "Saw II." "We both left the theater afraid that something was going to jump out of nowhere and attack us all night," he says. Krisy adds: "When we got back to his place, we literally turned on all the lights in the house because of how scared we were."

■ How He Proposed: At the top of the Washington Monument.

■ Pet Names: "I call him 'Boo,' 'Cockadoodle,' 'Love,' 'Jaybird.' The list goes on and on."

■ Family Traditions: In keeping with Krisy's Congolese heritage, Jay "presented a dowry and a handful of gifts, and then, once everything was negotiated and accepted, we had a big party."

"Jay was so cute. His smile went from ear to ear, and I could clearly tell he thought I was kind to his eyes."

Love at First Leer

When SHARI WATSON's friend, a bit tipsy, decided to catwalk down the street after a night of clubbing, MIKE GRINAGE watched attentively, wondering whether "she was going to stumble and initiate a meeting between her face and the pavement." The staring rubbed Shari the wrong way, and she called out, "Y'all can at least speak!" That's when he called her over to the car.

They bantered about D.C. (his home) and Baltimore (hers); she made fun of his Redskins hat ("I thought it was a Phillies hat, but it was even worse!"), and he asked for her number. Playing hard to get, "she proceeded to tell me she did not have a phone, but her phone was in plain view on her lap." Busted! She gave him her number, and their story began.

Shari, 31, is a tech consultant. Mike, 29, is a special police officer. They will live in Baltimore after their Sept. 5 wedding.

Elizabeth Forster, Shane Williams

Elizabeth, 22, is a Department of State worker. Shane, 26, is a network consultant. They live in Centreville, Va.

- The Main Event: They wed Aug. 23 in a formal ceremony attended by 85 guests; next, they're jetting off to Puerto Rico for their honeymoon.
- How They Met: Through a mutual friend — who turned out to be interested in Shane, too. "He would not give me Shane's phone number. ... We had to use Facebook."
- First Impressions: "I thought she was hot and fun."
- First Date: They played pool in the campus billiards room at George Mason University.

"He was sooo nervous, he didn't say a word the entire meal. It was quite awkward."

Margaret Costa, Warren Robinson

Margaret, 26, is a grad student. Warren, 24, is a PR account executive. They will live in Arlington.

- The Main Event: A "formal but romantic" wedding on Capitol Hill with a Dupont Circle reception for 100 guests on Sept. 5. Says Margaret: "We are excited for pictures near the fountain with Washingtonians in the background!"
- How They Met: They both attended journalism school in Missouri but were just friends until after she graduated. "I remember hearing that Margaret would be moving to D.C. to attend American University for graduate school and thinking, 'Great, I'll know someone there.'" He was planning to move to D.C. for his job.

■ First Date: They saw "Texas Chainsaw Massacre: The Beginning"; she didn't realize it was a date until afterward.

- How He Proposed: She had the flu, but he persuaded her to get some fresh air. Then, on Theodore Roosevelt Island, he proposed with white roses, a picture album he'd made and the ring.

■ Stupidest Fight: When she ordered pie to go and it came "unassembled," with the ice cream and toppings separate from the pie. "She complained about it, then I complained about her complaining, and somehow we argued about apple pie for 20 minutes. It ended with the entire thing being thrown in the trash."

■ Most Hated Clothing Item: Warren's khaki shorts. "They are a thick half-jean, half-khaki material that people wore in 1999. Horrible."

“I’m not necessarily opposed to this kind of dancing. However, I suggest that it has its place, [which] is not the sidelines of an NFL game.”

SOUPISNOTAFINGERFOOD.WORDPRESS.COM DOESN’T CONSIDER THE “TITILLATING, SUGGESTIVE DANCING” SEEN AT SATURDAY’S REDSKINS GAME TO BE CHEERLEADING.

“DHS has been re-examining the utility of the color-coded ‘threat level’ system, and [Tom] Ridge’s charges lend weight to the argument to scrap the whole thing.”

NOTIONSCAPITAL.WORDPRESS.COM FEELS THE FORMER DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY DIRECTOR’S CLAIM THAT HE WAS PRESSURED INTO RAISING THE THREAT LEVEL BEFORE THE 2004 ELECTION SHOWS THE SYSTEM NEEDS TO CHANGE.

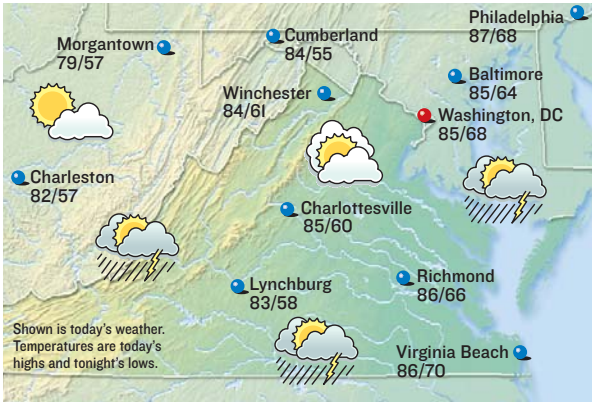

“I HAVE ABSOLUTELY no idea what the appeal of ‘Yellow Submarine’ is without the Beatles. If anyone can explain it to me, I would be happy to listen, but I admit I’ll start from a point of severe skepticism.”

ALYSSAROSENBURG.BLOGSPOT.COM CAN’T UNDERSTAND WHY DIRECTOR ROBERT ZEMECKIS IS CONSIDERING A REMAKE OF THE 1968 MOVIE.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll want to be sure that your emotions are in check, especially when beginning a new phase that may be marked by heightened volatility.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) There's no reason to give up before you find out who wins and who loses. In either case, you can come out better than before.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Be sure that others are getting the message you're sending in a way that doesn't invite misinterpretation or overreaction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You may have to work harder to achieve the same results, but you'll have one or two very good reasons for making the extra effort.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A friendly contest is likely to become quite intense before all is said and done — partly because you play harder than almost anyone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Are you sure that your motives and expectations are in sync? They are not the same, but they surely have to work together.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You'll enjoy more freedom of expression, but this doesn't mean that you can let others have it in a willy-nilly fashion.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may feel as though everything is in order and ready to go, but in fact you've been consistently overlooking one key element.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you have a complaint to register, be sure that you go to the right person — and at the right time. A misfiled complaint can prove dangerous.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things may seem more tense than usual, in part because you've been keeping certain key pieces of information to yourself. Share.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You know how to approach even the most trivial of endeavors with excitement and dedication. Still, save something for the big things.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Expect things to go according to plan — at least when looking at the big picture. Some of the details may not be anticipated.

Today in History

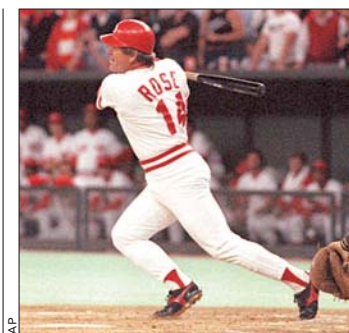

A.D. 79 Long-dormant Mount Vesuvius erupts, burying the Roman cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum in volcanic ash; an estimated 20,000 people died.

1814 During the War of 1812, British forces invade Washington, D.C., setting fire to the Capitol (which was still under construction) and the White House, as well as other public buildings.

1932 Amelia Earhart embarks on a 19-hour flight from Los Angeles to Newark, N.J., making her the first woman to fly solo, non-stop, from coast to coast.

1954 President Dwight D. Eisenhower signs the Communist Control Act, outlawing the Communist Party in the United States.

1989 Baseball Commissioner A. Bartlett Giamatti bans Pete Rose for life for betting on his own team, the Cincinnati Reds.

Baseball's all-time hits king, Pete Rose, was banned for life on this day in 1989.

2004 An independent commission says the blame for abuses at Iraq's Abu Ghraib prison lay mainly with the American soldiers who ran the jail, but said senior commanders and top-level Pentagon officials could also be faulted for failed leadership and oversight.

BRILLIANT Paparazzi Wish They'd Thought of That Excuse
A woman found guilty of snooping at BRITNEY SPEARS' house has been sentenced to three years of probation and 240 hours of community service. A judge in Malibu, Calif. found Miranda Tozier-Robbins guilty of peeping into Spears' home. Tozier-Robbins also was ordered Thursday to stay away from Spears and her home. The woman was arrested in April after deputies found her wearing camouflage, carrying camera equipment and peering into the windows of Spears' home. Tozier-Robbins said afterward that she was working on a documentary about paparazzi tactics. (AP)

NO WAY!
Thousands Realize That 'One Tree Hill' Is Still On

"One Tree Hill" actor ANTWON TANNER has pleaded guilty to selling more than a dozen Social Security numbers for $10,000. Tanner told a federal judge on Friday that he was a middleman, selling numbers someone else provided. Tanner is expected to get as much as a year in prison at his sentencing, set for Nov. 20. Tanner plays the character Skills in the CW series. (AP)
